

WHY YOU SHOULD YOU BE PART OF THE EHDEN ACADEMY FACULTY?

To become an active member of a trusted, open science community that collaborates on real-world data research methodologies and education.

Be part of an international group of experts educating on observational research knowledge/skills and help foster an open science OHDSI community

Help ensure that 21st century tools for 21st century research are utilised that ultimately contribute to improved patient care and outcomes across Europe and beyond

Raise your and your organisation's profile as a faculty member that is making a difference by tackling the challenges of observational research through education

93% of students in the online Academy rated their experience as good to excellent and felt their expectations were met.

Students liked the practical examples and videos, supported by the quizzes and exams at the end of each course. The many links to external sources of information allowed for problem solving and diving deeper into the course topics.

Visit the Academy via academy.ehden.eu to learn more and email us via enquiries@ehden.eu to join the faculty